NYBPA President Message

This NY weather and rain has made for a difficult hay season for all. Luckily, we beef producers are good at adapting and making the best out of not-so-good situations. With things starting to open back up again we welcome the opportunity to get together in-person more. NYBPA has some awesome events coming up in different regions as well as our big Beef Expo Weekend at Lott Farms, Sept. 24-25th. Check out the details in this newsletter. We look hope to see you there.

Amanda Dackowsky joined us as the new executive secretary July 1st. We welcome her and look forward to lots of great things ahead for the association. We are always looking for new ideas and programs, so if you have anything in mind just let myself or Amanda know and we can see about making it happen.

I hope everyone has a happy and safe summer!

Thanks,
Ted

A VIEW FROM THE TRACTOR SEAT

By Paul Trowbridge

Great view this month halfway thru the summer and it has been great so far our farm has been short of rain. Grandpa always said a dry summer will scare you but a wet summer will kill you. Wet always follows dry and dry always follows wet. I have faith next week will be wet because the wheat will be dry enough to harvest seems like this happens every summer since I was a kid and that's a lot of summers.

Corn is growing like gangbusters and that's another thing Grandpa always said corn doesn't grow till Grandma sleeps without the sheets Grandpa was born in 1896 before electricity was widely used on the farm I loved his stories on how they kept the milk cold with spring water and cutting ice in the winter and covering with sawdust and have it last almost thru the summer taking cans of milk to the railroad to go to Buffalo and getting back your empty cans so you had someplace to put your milk at the next milking. How things have changed in the last hundred years but the things that haven't changed are just what Grandpa always said sometime in your life you will need a doctor a preacher a policeman a lawyer but three times a day you will need a farmer.

Our bees are making honey every day we have a few hens that are very broody because they know it's much easier to hatch and raise chicks this time of the year. We sure hope everybody is taking advantage of the pandemic easing up and people getting out and being able to enjoy all the county fairs that were canceled last year. I hope this last year we learned tomorrow is not promised and enjoy every day as it comes and the little things in life may be the most important hug your family and don't look back because we are not going that way.

Meet the New Executive Secretary

My name is Amanda Dackowsky and I live in Perrysburg, NY with my husband and 2 young children. Together with my parents, we have a small commercial cow/calf operation where we raise and sell wholesale and retail beef, as well as pork, lamb, and chicken. I am honored to serve as the new Executive Secretary for the NYBPA. I started in the NYJBPA when I attended the 2007 Fall Festival. Since then, I have been a member of the junior and adult association, and over the years have served as the NYJBPA Secretary and Co-Chair for the Semen Auction, Region 2 Co-Officer, and NYBPA Secretary. These days are filled with preparation for all the fun summer and fall events- county fairs, Empire Farm Days, State Fair and the Supreme Show, Fall Festival, and a new event we are planning in September- Beef Expo Weekend. Check out the details on page 5! I look forward to working with you all in a great association that focuses on my favorite thing - BEEF!

More Special Announcements and Events

Beef Promotional Brochures and NYBPA membership applications can be sent out to County Fairs, Events, Farm Tours, Farm Marketers, etc. when requested. Send requests to nybeefproducers@aol.com in enough time to get them to your events on time.

Empire Farm Days- Palladino Farms, 3149 Sweet Road, Jamesville, NY August 3-5, 2021 9am-4pm daily. If you can help man the booth any time let Amanda Dackowsky know by emailing your name and which day and time you're available at nybeefproducers@aol.com. Our booth will be in the Dairy Tent at Space # D35. We will only have an informational Booth this year at this show, no Beef Sandwiches.

NYBPA Council Meeting- The next NYBPA Council meeting will be "in person" at the new Empire Farm Days site at Palladino Farms, 3149 Sweet Road, Jamesville, NY on August 4th at 4:00 PM.

Beef Expo Weekend – is Sept 24-25th at Lott Farms, 2973 State Route 414, Seneca Falls, NY 13148. Check out the ad on page 5 of this newsletter for details on the fun events and educational speakers we have planned. RSVP for event by Sept. 8th by emailing nybeefproducers@aol.com or calling Amanda at 716-432-9871.

Annual Conference – plans are under way for the 2022 Annual Conference. Do you have a topic or idea you would like to see there? Help us put together a program that suits our beef producer's. Let us know by emailing nybeefproducers@aol.com.

Beef Farm Of Distinction- Looking for ideas on how to put this new program together to spotlight Beef Farmers in New York. Call or email Amanda if interested.

NYBPA Historian- The NYBPA is coming up on 75 YEARS OLD- Let's Celebrate!!! Would you be interested in volunteering as the NYBPA historian? The job would include organizing old newsletters and getting information and ideas to help us celebrate this big milestone. If interested, email nybeefproducers@aol.com or call Amanda Dackowsky.

News from NY Beef Council

Beef Checkoff Virtual Meat Retreat!

Six social influencers attended a virtual “BEefTogether” Meat Retreat, thanks to a partnership between the New York and Iowa Beef Councils.

This virtual evening event focused on at-home beef butchery and cookery. Food bloggers from throughout New York, with the assistance of NYBC in purchasing a strip loin sub-primal, received the first-ever online butchery lesson from master butcher Kari Underly. Underly is the owner of Range Meat Academy and author of Art of Beef Cutting, a James Beard nominated book. Using two video cameras, Kari led the cutting of the sub-primal showing influencers how to create strip steaks, strip roasts, and petite strip filets. In addition, she discussed how to utilize all meat and fat scraps to ensure using practically the whole sub-primal.

“The versatility of the strip loin makes for great discussion and lessons in both cutting and cookery,” added Jean O’Toole, Executive Director of New York Beef Council. “With the new knowledge from today’s event attendees understand how this one cut can be further broken down to and utilized for multiple great eating experiences.” Post evaluations of the event revealed that 100% of attendees would recommend this opportunity to their colleagues and all rated the experience a 5 out of 5 star rating!

Social influencers were asked to document their learnings and create a recipe utilizing the meat they cut during the event. Initial social analytics show the reach to be over 12,000 followers, over 15,000 impressions and nearly 1,000 engagements with the bloggers’ posts. The video of the learnings from the event can be found on the New York Beef Council’s YouTube page so you can cut your own beef too!

Cutting meat in person is a challenge, but cutting meat virtually takes a lot of patience! I think I would’ve double checked/leaned on Kari a bit more if I were in person. But, in a way this then just gave me more confidence because I had to move forward (and I knew I could go off mute and ask a question if I felt like I really needed to).

The NYBC’s goal is to serve as the premier source of beef information to the influencers in our region. Events such as this allow the Beef Checkoff to engage directly, even in a virtual format, with influencers and bloggers to highlight beef’s versatility, quality and taste. Attendees reflected upon the event by saying, “I never thought about doing those smaller ‘filet mignon’ type steaks. Such a great idea because so often traditional size steak is too big for a lot of guests.” Also, “My favorite part and biggest takeaway was the emphasis on using every part of the beef, even the scraps.”

Family Meals and Baby Too!

The American Academy of Pediatrics, the Women Infants and Children’s Program (WIC) and now for the first time ever, the Dietary Guidelines for Americans recommend introducing solid foods, like beef, to infants and toddlers, in order to pack every bite with protein, iron, zinc and choline. At about six months of age, babies will begin to eat solid food in addition to breastmilk or formula. It is important to start solid foods around this time as it helps your baby meet nutritional requirements, and teaches he or she how to eat a range of textures and flavors. Some key nutrients for babies’ development are protein, iron, zinc, Vitamin D, DHA, and fat. Beef, whether in a solid or pureed form, can be a source of some of these nutrients.

To capitalize on these new recommendations New York Beef Council engaged five social media nutrition bloggers this spring to promote baby’s first foods. NYBC called on registered dietitian social influencers that had young infants or toddlers, and challenged them to create a family meal using recipes from Beef It’s What’s for Dinner.com or a beef recipe from their own recipe books. They had to create a regular family meal as well as a ground and pureed version of the meal. To enhance the experience the dietitians were given Baby Ninja blenders to create the ground and pureed options. Their social channels then had a giveaway of the blenders to engage their followers. Social influencer meals ranged from beef fajitas created by @thesassydietitian to sloppy joes created by @chefab-biegellman to meatballs created by @dairyfarmerrd.

The promotion was fun and successful in showing moms that want to share a family meal and create their own baby food just how to do it, ensuring their favorite family meals are part of the newest member of the family’s diet. Total reach for the promotion was over 46,500 consumers with nearly 5,500 engagements for the campaign! There are five lucky families that now own their own baby food blenders to ensure beef protein is part of their infant’s healthy diet.

The Beef Checkoff Program was established as part of the 1985 Farm Bill. The Beef Checkoff assesses $1 per head on the sale of live domestic and imported cattle, in addition to a comparable assessment on imported beef and beef products. States retain up to 50 cents on the dollar and forward the other 50 cents per head to the Cattlemen’s Beef Promotion and Research Board (CBB), which administers the national Beef Checkoff program, subject to USDA approval. Consumer-focused and producer-directed, the CBB and its State Beef Council partners are the marketing organization for the largest segment of the food and fiber industry.
